

Published based on Endometriosis : global forum for news and information in endometriosis

Endometriosis : global forum for news and information in endometriosis

Endometriosis affects 1 out of every 10 women in the United States. Some of its symptoms include back pain, cramps, infertility, heavy bleeding, pain during intercourse, bowel movements and even urination.

Endometriosis is when the uterine tissue builds up on the fallopian tube, the external surface of the uterus and/or the ovaries.

Thankfully there are treatments available. One prescription that doctors are giving out is for letrozole (the brand name is Femara). It's usually used to stop breast cancer from reoccurring but is showing promise in treating endometriosis.

Click on the link below to go to endometriosis.org. It has facts about the disease, the many forms of treatment and it has a general facts list. You can also find out where to get support.

Click Here Read the Original Article

You can also find this article published on Endometriosis : global forum for news and information in endometriosis